- I. Both lawmen and laymen often ask, 'What is the law applicable to a given set of facts?' The answers to this question differ depending upon the specific jurisdiction to which the given set of facts is linked. Contrary to this, scholars and students of jurisprudence are likely to ask the general question, viz 'What is Law?'. This question on the philosophy and nature of law supposes that law is a distinctive social-political phenomenon with universal characteristics that can be perceived through philosophical analysis. In such a study, the assumption is that law possesses some universal characteristics.

An analysis of the philosophy of law can be done for different reasons. Apart from a purely intellectual interest in understanding this complex phenomenon known as law, scholars also study the same as a normative social practice that purports to guide human behaviour, giving rise to reasons for action. The primary challenge of the branch of scholarship known as jurisprudence is based on this 'normative, reason-giving aspect of law'. At the same time, we must understand that law is not the only normative realm in any given society. It is one of the many normative standards such as morality, religion, customs and usages, etiquette, self-regulatory standards within a family or corporation etc. So, it is also essential that we study law on the differences and similarities of the same with these normative standards.

While discerning these connections and contradictions, legal theories often study the content of the norm apart from giving importance to the source. Generally, theoretical studies on the content such as natural lawyers emphasize values such as fairness, justice, liberty etc., as qualifications for the norms to be called laws. They have argued that laws must be in tune with certain principles of inner morality, such as that laws be general, public, prospective, coherent, clear, stable, and practicable are indispensable to law-making. Whereas theories that give prominence to the sources of the norm, such as enactment/command by political institution/authority, do not always emphasize on the content.

Such philosophical analysis of law comprises both explanatory and justificatory aspects. While the explanatory aspect consists of explaining how laws can give rise to reasons and what kinds of reasons are involved. One example of this would be Dworkin's classification of law as concepts, principles and rules. The aspect of justification concerns whether people ought to comply with the law's demands. In other words, it is the attempt to explain the moral legitimacy of law and the subjects' reasons for complying with it.

1. Validity of law resides in the political sovereignty of the maker of that law refers to:
  - (A) Legal Positivism
  - (B) Natural Law
  - (C) Historical School
  - (D) Sociological School

2. A norm cannot become legally valid unless its content is fair and just in accordance to:
- (A) Legal Positivism (B) Natural Law
(C) Historical School (D) Sociological School
3. "The falsehood of legal positivism resides in envisaging that the law consists of only rules. However, this is a serious mistake since legal principles partly determine the law in addition to rules. The distinction between rules and principles is a logical one. Rules apply in an 'all or nothing fashion.' If the rule applies to the circumstances, it determines a particular legal outcome. If it does not apply, it is simply irrelevant to the outcome....." according to:
- (A) Ronald Dworkin, Taking Rights Seriously, 1977
(B) John Finnis, Natural Law and Natural Rights, 1980.
(C) H.L.A.Hart, The Concept of Law, 1961.
(D) Raz, Joseph, Legal Principles and the Limits of Law, 1972.
4. Principles requiring that laws be general, public, prospective, coherent, clear, stable, and practicable are indispensable to law-making correspond to:
- (A) Inner Morality (B) Method of logic
(C) Legitimacy and Transparency in law making (D) Democratic law making
5. 'I mean simply that history, in illuminating the past, illuminates the present, and in illuminating the present, illuminates the future' opined by:
- (A) Roscoe Pound (B) Benjamin Cardozo
(C) Duguit (D) Auguste Comte
6. 'The life of the law has not been logic: it has been experience' is stated by:
- (A) Holmes (B) Dworkin
(C) Cardozo (D) Amartya Sen
- II. A thought-provoking book titled 'The Morality of Law' by Lon L. Fuller on moral philosophy insists on a distinction between 'morality of aspiration' and 'morality of duty'. From the view of the morality of aspiration, the human conduct does not bear on mandatory rules but on conceptions of the 'Good Life', of 'what beseems a human being functioning at his best to human capacities'. Because no law can compel a man to live up to the excellence of which he is capable. But for workable standards of judgment, the morality of duty lays down the basic rules without which an ordered society directed towards certain specific goals must fail of its mark. Because the duty ties it very closely to what is 'rationally discoverable' and 'objective', as contrasted with the morality of aspiration based on subjectivism. However, moralists may differ as to what range of conduct should fall within the respective spheres of duty and the morality of aspirations. "When we are passing a judgment of moral duty, it seems absurd to say that such a duty can in some way flow directly from knowledge of a situation of fact." As due to the fact that before we conclude 'that a duty ought to exist', however well we may understand the facts, by the close connection between understanding a person's ideals, approval and disapproval. Does this mean that duties are rationally discoverable, and a matter of choice, even if not of 'ineffable preference'? Presumably not, since when we pass a moral judgment of duty 'ought' to exist. It is necessary to distinguish between the accepted morality of a social group and the personal morality of individuals. 'Duty' may appear in all of these, but the satisfaction is very often a matter of degree varying from situation to situation. The rule of a morality of duty is necessary for social living. The morality of aspiration provides a general idea of the perfection we ought to acquire it. If we consider the whole range of moral issues, we may imagine a yardstick which begins at the bottom with the most obvious demands of social living and extends upward to the highest reaches of human aspirations. Somewhere along this scale an invisible pointer marks the dividing line where the pressure of duty leaves off and the challenge of excellence begins. The whole field of moral argument is an undeclared war over the location of this pointer. Whom we regard as being moralistic are always trying to inch the pointer upward so as to expand the area of duty and they bludgeon us into a belief that we are duty bound to embrace this pattern of human conduct, instead of making us realize a pattern of life they consider worthy of human nature.

7. Which of the following statements regarding the 'morality of aspiration' is untrue?
- (A) The morality of aspiration is based on inevitable rules for ordered social living.
  - (B) The morality of aspiration impulses towards the perfection and excellence.
  - (C) The law cannot regulate the morality of aspiration because it is subjective in nature.
  - (D) The law cannot compel a man to adhere to the best of his human capabilities.
8. The rules for morality of duty command:
- (A) To conduct best to human capacity.      (B) To conduct necessary for self-survival.
  - (C) To conduct equally as others' conduct.      (D) To conduct necessary for social living.

9. Consider the statements:

- (I) The moralistic philosophy always strives to encroach into the area of morality of aspiration to bring it as duty for the social living.
- (II) The moralistic philosophers compel us to embrace the pattern of human conduct, instead of making us realize a pattern of life that is worthy of human nature.

Choose the correct answer from the code given below.

- (A) Both (I) and (II) are true.
- (B) Both (I) and (II) are untrue.
- (C) (I) is true and (II) is untrue.
- (D) (II) is true and (I) is untrue.

10. Which of the following element is not required for the formation of decision regarding a moral duty?

- (A) Rationality
- (B) Objectivity
- (C) Subjectivity
- (D) Knowledge regarding the circumstances

11. The concept of duty as characterised by Lon L. Fuller seems

- (A) Dynamic
- (B) Static
- (C) Personal
- (D) Fictional

12. Which of the following statements is not true?

- (A) 'Morality of duty' is non-obligatory.
- (B) 'Morality of duty' is obligatory.
- (C) Rules of 'morality of aspiration' are a challenge to human conduct.
- (D) Human excellence is the end of 'morality of aspiration'.

III. The present system of appointments as envisaged by the Constitution and as elucidated in the Collegium system makes it clear that the first step is a recommendation from Collegium of four senior-most judges and presided over by the Chief Justice. This process in turn requires wide consultation by the Chief Justice of the High Court to identify the requisite talent, so as to make the recommendations. Contrary to some portrayed beliefs as if this is an extremely subjective system, every Chief Justice is actually required to solicit names from different sources whether it be sitting judges, retired judges, or prominent members of the Bar. It is from this pool of talent that he selects, after a discussion in the collegium, the most suitable candidates. It is thus of utmost importance that the flow of recommendations continues for the appointment process to work successfully. The current situation of vacancies, especially in some of the larger courts with very few recommendations in the pipeline seems to be the genesis of this problem. The data placed before us, as drawn from the National Judicial Data Grid (NJDG) shows that five (5) High Courts alone are responsible for 54% of the pendency of over 57,51,312 cases i.e., the High Courts of Allahabad, Punjab & Haryana, Madras, Bombay, and Rajasthan. The Madras High Court has among the highest arrears in the country of 5.8 lakh cases despite having fewer vacancies than most other High Courts (i.e., 7%). This does not take away from the requirement of appointing ad hoc Judges but supports the view that even if the existing vacancies are few, a situation may arise requiring the expertise of experienced Judges to be appointed as ad hoc Judges.

13. The above excerpt has been taken from which of the following judgments, where the Supreme Court of India sought to activate a dormant provision of the Constitution of India for the appointment of ad hoc Judges to deal with the unprecedented backlog of cases pending before the High Courts ?
- (A) Devendra Kumar Saxena v. Central Bureau of Investigation (CBI), 2021 SCC OnLine SC 330.
(B) M.K. Ranjitsinh v. Union of India, 2021 SCC OnLine SC 326.
(C) Lok Prahari through its General Secretary S.N. Shukla, IAS (Retd.) v. Union of India, 2021 SCC OnLine SC 333.
(D) Justice V. Eswaraiah (Retd.) v. Union of India, 2021 SCC OnLine SC 310.
14. Which of the following dormant provision of the Constitution of India has been invoked by the Supreme Court of India for the appointment of ad hoc Judges to deal with the backlog of cases before the High Courts?
- (A) Article 224A (B) Article 217
(C) Article 224 (D) Article 217A
15. In Supreme Court Advocates on Record Association v. Union of India, (2016) 5 SCC 1, the Supreme Court of India, by a _____ majority, restored the collegium system of appointment of judges by holding that the National Judicial Appointments Commission Act, 2014 is ultra vires the Constitution of India.
- (A) 3:2 (B) 4:1 (C) 6:1 (D) 4:3
16. In which of the following cases the Supreme Court of India observed that for appointment of a retired Judge as an ad hoc judge, the consent of such retired Judge is a pre-requisite for his/her appointment as an ad hoc judge?
- (A) Ashok Tanwar v. State of Himachal Pradesh, (2005) 2 SCC 104.
(B) Supreme Court Advocates on Record Association v. Union of India, (2016) 5 SCC 1.
(C) Union of India v. Sankal Chand and Himatlal Sheth, (1977) 4 SCC 193.
(D) Krishan Gopal v. Shri Prakash Chandra, (1974) 1 SCC 128.
17. In which of the following reports the Law Commission of India advocated for appointment of retired judges as ad-hoc judges in the interest of clearing backlogs of cases in the High Courts?
- (A) One Hundred Eighty Eighth Report on proposals for Constitution of Hi-Tech Fast-Track Commercial Divisions in High Courts (2003).
(B) Fourteenth Report on Reforms in Judicial Administration (1958).
(C) One Twentieth Report on Manpower Planning in Judiciary: A Blueprint (1987).
(D) One Hundred Eighteenth Report on Method of Appointments to Subordinate Courts/ Subordinate Judiciary (1986).

18. Which of the following statements is true regarding the origin of the Collegium system for appointment of judges?
- (A) Article 124A of the Constitution of India provides for the establishment of the collegium system.
  - (B) The Judicial Appointments (Collegium System) Act, 1999 provides for the establishment of the collegium system.
  - (C) The Constitution of India does not provide for the establishment of the collegium system.
  - (D) The National Judicial Appointments Commission supplements the collegium system for appointment of judges.

IV. The Supreme Court of India observed that, while appreciating the existence of the right to peaceful protest against a legislation ....., we have to make it unequivocally clear that public ways and public spaces cannot be occupied in such a manner and that too indefinitely. Democracy and dissent go hand in hand, but then the demonstrations expressing dissent must be in designated places alone. The present case was not even one of protests taking place in an undesignated area but was a blockage of a public way which caused grave inconvenience to commuters. We cannot accept the plea of the applicants that an indeterminable number of people can assemble whenever they choose to protest.

19. Which of the following judgments relating to right to peaceful protest has the above excerpt been taken from?
- (A) M.C. Mehta v. Union of India, 2020 SCC OnLine SC 648.
  - (B) Association for Democratic Reforms v. Union of India, 2021 SCC OnLine SC 266.
  - (C) Anuradha Bhasin v. Union of India, (2020) 3 SCC 637.
  - (D) Amit Sahni v. Commissioner of Police, (2020) 10 SCC 439.
20. Which of the following judgments is not related to right to assemble as enshrined under the Constitution of India?
- (A) Mazdoor Kisan Shakti Sangathan v. Union of India, (2018) 17 SCC 324.
  - (B) Sampurna Behura v. Union of India, (2018) 4 SCC 433.
  - (C) Bimal Gurung v. Union of India, (2018) 15 SCC 480.
  - (D) Anita Thakur v. State of Jammu and Kashmir, (2016) 15 SCC 525.
21. As per the judgment of In Re Ramlila Maidan Incident, (2012) 5 SCC 1, which of the following statement is not correct?
- (A) Right to sleep is not a part of Article 21 of the Constitution of India.
  - (B) An individual is entitled to sleep as comfortably and as freely as he breathes.
  - (C) Sleep, is a fundamental and basic requirement without which the existence of life would be in peril.
  - (D) State's compelling interest in regulation of subject was discussed in this case.

22. Which of the following statement is not correct in relation to right to assemble under the Constitution of India?
- (A) The assembly should be peaceful.
  - (B) Reasonable restrictions stated under Article 19 for right to assemble are sovereignty and integrity of India or public order, morality.
  - (C) The assembly should be without arms.
  - (D) Reasonable restrictions on right to assemble are provided in Article 19(3) of the Constitution of India.
23. The rule prohibiting demonstrations by government servants was discussed in which of the following judgments?
- (A) Union of India v. Naveen Jindal, (2004) 2 SCC 510.
  - (B) Ram Bahadur Rai v. State of Bihar, AIR 1975 SC 223.
  - (C) Kameshwar Prasad v. State of Bihar, AIR 1962 SC 1166.
  - (D) Bennett Coleman & Co. v. Union of India, AIR 1973 SC 106.
24. Which of the following judges of the Supreme Court of India were part of the Bench in the judgment as given in the excerpt?
- (A) Sanjay Kishan Kaul, Aniruddha Bose and Indira Banerjee, JJ.
  - (B) Aniruddha Bose and Krishna Murari, JJ.
  - (C) Sanjay Kishan Kaul, Aniruddha Bose and Krishna Murari, JJ.
  - (D) Sanjay Kishan Kaul and Krishna Murari, JJ.
- V. The Supreme Court of India has held that the rationale of granting maintenance from the date of application finds its roots in the object of enacting maintenance legislations, so as to enable the wife to overcome the financial crunch which occurs on separation from the husband. Financial constraints of a dependant spouse hamper their capacity to be effectively represented before the Court. Enforcement of the order of maintenance is the most challenging issue, which is encountered by the applicants. If maintenance is not paid in a timely manner, it defeats the very object of the social welfare legislation. Execution petitions usually remain pending for months, if not years, which completely nullifies the object of the law.
25. Based on the given excerpt from the judgment, which of the following judgments is related to enforcement of orders of maintenance and successive claims by parties in matrimonial proceedings?
- (A) Smriti Madan Kansagra v. Perry Kansagra, 2020 SCC OnLine SC 1003.
  - (B) Rajnesh v. Neha, (2021) 2 SCC 324.
  - (C) Roshina T. v. Abdul Azeez K.T., (2019) 2 SCC 329.

26. Which of the following reliefs does the Hindu Marriage Act, 1955 provide?
- (A) Maintenance Pendente lite, expenses of proceedings, permanent alimony and maintenance.
  - (B) Expenses of proceedings, permanent alimony and maintenance.
  - (C) Maintenance Pendente lite, permanent alimony and maintenance.
  - (D) Maintenance Pendente lite, expenses of proceedings, permanent alimony.
27. Which of the following statutes does not contain provisions relating to maintenance?
- (A) The Parsi Marriage and Divorce Act, 1936.
  - (B) The Special Marriage Act, 1954.
  - (C) The Prohibition of Child Marriage Act, 2006.
  - (D) The Muslim Women (Protection of Rights on Marriage) Act, 2019.
28. Which of the following is not a direction given by Supreme Court of India in the judgement relating to orders of maintenance and successive claims by parties in matrimonial proceedings?
- (A) Where successive claims for maintenance are made by a party under different statutes, the Court would consider an adjustment or setoff of the amount awarded in previous proceedings.
  - (B) If the order passed in the previous proceeding/s requires any modification or variation, it would be required to be done in the same proceeding.
  - (C) It is not mandatory for the applicant to disclose the previous proceeding and the orders passed therein, in the subsequent proceeding.
  - (D) The affidavit of disclosure of assets and liabilities as applicable, shall be filed by both parties in all maintenance proceedings, including pending proceedings before any other court, as the case may be.
29. Which of the following is not correct as per Section 125 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973?
- (A) It provides for maintenance to wife/wives, illegitimate and legitimate children and parents.
  - (B) A wife shall not be entitled to receive maintenance as per this provision from her husband if she is living in adultery, or if, without any sufficient reason, she refuses to live with her husband, or if they are living separately by mutual consent.
  - (C) A magistrate has been given wide powers under this provision.
  - (D) As per the explanation under this provision, wife does not include a woman who has been divorced by, or has obtained a divorce from, her husband but includes a woman who has remarried.

30. Which of the following is correct about the Hindu Adoptions and Maintenance Act, 1956?

- (A) It is a special legislation which was enacted to provide for maintenance to wife during the subsistence of the marriage.
- (B) The Supreme Court of India considered the interplay between the claim for maintenance under the Hindu Marriage Act, 1955 and Hindu Adoptions and Maintenance Act, 1956 in Chand Dhawan v. Jawaharlal Dhawan, (1993) 3 SCC 406.
- (C) Section 18 of the Act provides that a Hindu wife shall be entitled to be maintained by her husband during her lifetime.
- (D) As per Section 18 of the Act, a Hindu wife is not entitled to make a claim for a separate residence from her husband, without forfeiting her right to maintenance.

VI. The Supreme Court of India has held that the nature of inquiry before the Family Court is, indeed, adjudicatory. It is obliged to resolve the rival claims of the parties and while doing so, it must adhere to the norms prescribed by the statute in that regard and also the foundational principle of fairness of procedure and natural justice. These provisions plainly reveal that the Family Court is expected to follow procedure known to law, which means insist for a formal pleading to be filed by both sides, then frame the issues for determination, record the evidence of the parties to prove the facts asserted by the concerned party and only thereafter, to enter upon determination and render decision thereon by recording the reasons for such decision. For doing this, the Family Court is expected to give notice to the respective parties and provide them sufficient time and opportunity to present their claim in the form of pleadings and evidence before determination of the dispute.

31. Which of the following is not correct about the Family Courts Act, 1984?

- (A) The Act intends to promote conciliation and secure speedy settlement of disputes.
- (B) The appointment of counsellors in family courts is determined by the State Government in consultation with the High Court.
- (C) The duty of the Family Court is to arrive at a settlement between the parties where it is possible and consistent with the nature and circumstances of the case.
- (D) A person can be appointed as a judge of the Family Court after the attainment of sixty-two years of age.

32. Based on the given excerpt, which of the following judgments is related to the working of Family Courts?

- (A) Sanjiv Prakash v. Seema Kukreja, 2021 SCC OnLine SC 282.
- (B) Khushi Ram v. Nawal Singh, 2021 SCC OnLine SC 128.
- (C) Aman Lohia v. Kiran Lohia, 2021 SCC OnLine SC 224.
- (D) Gurmeet Pal Singh v. State of Punjab, (2018) 7 SCC 260.

33. Based on the given excerpt, which of the following was held by the Supreme Court of India in relation to the Family Courts?
- (A) Non-compliance of the prescribed mandatory procedure and infraction of principles of natural justice is not a technical irregularity which can be overlooked by family courts.
  - (B) In divorce proceedings, it is the duty of family courts to mandatorily conduct mediation between the parties.
  - (C) Non-compliance of the prescribed mandatory procedure and infraction of principles of natural justice is a technical irregularity which can be overlooked by family courts.
  - (D) Family Courts ought not to examine matters after giving due opportunity to both sides on their own merits and in accordance with law.
34. The Family Court must adhere to the norms prescribed by the statute with regard to the adjudication of matrimonial disputes, and also to the:
- (A) Convenience of the court.
  - (B) Fair procedure and natural justice.
  - (C) International conventions.
  - (D) Convenience of the parties.
35. Which of the following is not correct about the nature of proceedings conducted in the Family Court?
- (A) The proceedings must always be held in camera.
  - (B) The Act provides that if the Family Court considers it necessary in the interest of justice, it may seek the assistance of a legal expert as amicus curiae.
  - (C) The proceedings may be held in camera depending on the desire of court and the party concerned.
  - (D) Family Court may secure the services of a medical expert if required.
36. The Family Courts Act, 1984 does not apply to which of the following matters?
- (A) Divorce under Hindu Law.
  - (B) Nikah as per Muslim Personal Law.
  - (C) Marriage under Special Marriage Act, 1954.
  - (D) Adoption under Hindu Law.

VII. The Supreme Court of India, in South East Asia Marine Engineering & Constructions Ltd. (SEAMEC LTD.) v. Oil India Ltd., (2020) 5 SCC 164, noted that, under the Indian contract law, the consequences of a force majeure event are provided for under Section 56 of the Indian Contract Act, 1872 which deals with a contract to do an Act which, after the contract is made, becomes impossible, or, by reason of some event which the promisor could not prevent, unlawful, becomes void when the Act becomes impossible or unlawful. When the parties have not provided for what would take place when an event which renders the performance of the contract impossible, then Section 56 applies. When the Act contracted for becomes impossible, then under Section 56, the parties are exempted from further performance and the contract becomes void. The Court has further held that in Section 56, the word 'impossible' is to be taken in its practical and not literal sense. It must be borne in mind, however, that Section 56 lays down a rule of positive law and does not leave the matter to be determined according to the intention of the parties. However, there is no doubt that the parties may instead choose the consequences that would flow on the happening of an uncertain future event, under Section 32 of the Indian Contract Act, 1872.

37. Mr. X agrees with Mr. Y to discover by magic, a treasure supposed to be buried within certain limits at an unknown spot. Mr. X found the treasure subsequently. Consider the given facts and answer which of the following statement is correct?
- (A) Law can regard a promise to do something obviously impossible as significant.
  - (B) Such promises are based on legal considerations.
  - (C) Law cannot regard a promise to do something obviously impossible to be of any value.
  - (D) The agreement is valid and binding.
38. Which of the following is correct regarding the Doctrine of Frustration of Contract?
- (A) It leaves the contract to be determined in accordance with the intention of the parties.
  - (B) It is based on the subsequent impossibility of the agreement which is frustrated by the intrusion or occurrence of an unexpected event which is within the contemplation by the parties.
  - (C) It does not necessarily make the contract impossible of performance.
  - (D) In case of change of circumstances which is so fundamental as to be regarded by law as striking at the root of the contract, court cannot pronounce the contract to be frustrated.
39. Consider the meaning of 'Impossibility' from the given excerpt: In deciding cases in India, the only doctrine that we have to go by is that of supervening impossibility or illegality as laid down in Section 56 of the Contract Act 1872, taking the word 'impossible' in its practical and not literal sense. Which of the following is correct regarding the nature of impossibility in such contracts?
- (A) The performance of the act may not be literally impossible, but it may be impracticable from the point of view of the object.
  - (B) The changed circumstances never make the performance of the contract impossible.
  - (C) The performance of the act may not be literally impossible, but it may be practicable from the point of view of the object.
  - (D) The parties are not absolved from the further performance of a contract if they do not promise to perform an impossibility.
40. Consider the given statement: Law does not compel a person to do which he cannot possibly perform. Which of the following legal maxims correctly expresses the meaning of the given statement?
- (A) Res Ipsa Loquitur
  - (B) Sub Silentio
  - (C) Actio Personalis Moritur Cum Persona
  - (D) Impotentia Excusat Legem

41. Which of the following will not make a contract frustrated even after a supervening impossibility ?
- (A) The contract is not absolute in terms and does not cover the impossibility.
  - (B) The contract is absolute and covers the impossibility.
  - (C) It cannot be reasonably foreseen by the parties at the time of formation of contract.
  - (D) If the object of the contract becomes impracticable.
42. Which of the following is correct regarding considerations in deciding issues of frustration of contract ?
- (A) The Doctrine of Frustration will not be applicable to assist a party that does not want to fulfil its obligations under the contract.
  - (B) The defence of Doctrine of Frustration is not available to a person who for the reason of impossibility cannot perform the contract.
  - (C) Few variations from the original contract will be a defence for the parties.
  - (D) The intervening event must not be entirely impossible.

VIII. The constitutional validity of the West Bengal Housing Industry Regulation Act, 2017 (WB-HIRA) was challenged on the basis that both WB-HIRA and a Parliamentary enactment, namely, the Real Estate (Regulation and Development) Act, 2016 (RERA) are relatable to the legislative subjects contained in Entries 6 and 7 of List III (Concurrent List) of the Seventh Schedule of the Constitution of India. WB-HIRA has neither been reserved for nor has it received Presidential assent under Article 254(2) of the Constitution of India, which was necessary since it was going to occupy the same field as the RERA, a law which had been enacted by the Parliament. The State enactment contains certain provisions which are either: directly inconsistent with the corresponding provisions of the Central enactment; or a virtual replica of the Central enactment; and Parliament having legislated on a field covered by the Concurrent List, it is constitutionally impermissible for the State Legislature to enact a law over the same subject matter by setting up a parallel legislation. The analysis indicates repugnancy between WB-HIRA and RERA. Undoubtedly, as Article 254(1) postulates, the legislation enacted by the State legislature is void 'to the extent of the repugnancy'. There is, not only a direct conflict of certain provisions between the RERA and WB-HIRA, but there is also a failure of the State legislature to incorporate statutory safeguards in WB-HIRA, which have been introduced in the RERA for protecting the interest of the purchasers of real estate. For repugnancy under Article 254 of the Constitution, there is a twin requirement to be fulfilled: firstly, there has to be a 'repugnancy' between a Central and State Act; and secondly, the Presidential assent has to be held as being non-existent. The test for determining such repugnancy is indeed to find out the dominant intention of both the legislations and whether such dominant intentions of both the legislations are alike or different. A provision in one legislation in order to give effect to its dominant purpose may incidentally be on the same subject as covered by the provision of the other legislation, but such partial or incidental coverage of the same area in a different context and to achieve a different purpose does not attract the doctrine of repugnancy. In order to attract the doctrine of repugnancy, both the legislations must be substantially on the same subject. Hence, WB-HIRA is repugnant to the RERA, and is hence unconstitutional.

43. Which of the following is not an element of the twin requirement test to determine repugnancy under Article 254 of the Constitution of India?
- (A) Repugnancy between the Central Act and State Act within the Concurrent List.
  - (B) State Act has been reserved for the consideration of the President.
  - (C) State Act has received assent of the President.
  - (D) Both (B) and (C).
44. Which of the following statements regarding Entry 7 of List III (Concurrent List) of Seventh Schedule of the Constitution of India is untrue ?
- (A) Contract relating to carriage of goods falls under Entry 7 of the Concurrent List.
  - (B) Contract relating to agriculture land falls under Entry 7 of the Concurrent List.
  - (C) Contract relating to agency falls under Entry 7 of the Concurrent List.
  - (D) Contract relating to partnership falls under Entry 7 of the Concurrent List.
45. Where the State legislature enacts an Act on a subject vested to State legislature by the Constitution of India, if incidentally, the provisions of such a State Act operates on a subject which is exclusively vested to the Parliament, such incidental coverage of the same area shall attract the test of:
- (A) Repugnancy
  - (B) Pith and substance
  - (C) Colourable legislation
  - (D) Superior legislation
46. The word 'assent' used in Article 254 (2) of the Constitution of India means:
- (A) A constitutional formality of obtaining consent of the President for promulgating a new Act.
  - (B) An express agreement of mind to what is proposed by the State Legislature by enacting a new law on the same subject on which the Central law already exists.
  - (C) An express agreement of mind to what is proposed by the State Legislature regarding repugnancy.
  - (D) Both (B) and (C).
47. Article 254 (2) of the Constitution of India applies to the matters enumerated in:
- (A) The Union List
  - (B) The State List
  - (C) The Concurrent List
  - (D) The Union List and the State List
48. In case of inconsistency between a law made by Parliament and law made by the Legislatures of State, the law made by the Legislature of the State shall:
- (A) Completely be void.
  - (B) To the extent of the repugnancy, be void.
  - (C) At the discretion of the Parliament, be void.
  - (D) At the discretion of the Court, be void.

IX. In Gautam Navlakha v. National Investigation Agency, 2021 SCC OnLine SC 382, the court analysed the ambit of Article 22 of the Constitution of India and also the scope of the expression 'arrest' contained therein and also under the relevant provisions of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (CrPC). 'Arrest' may be classified into two categories, namely, the arrest under a warrant issued by a court and arrest without warrant. Section 57 of the Code of Criminal Procedure clearly directs that the investigation should be completed in the first instance within 24 hours; if not the arrested person should be brought before a Magistrate as provided under Section 167 of the Code of Criminal Procedure. Turning now to Article 22(1) and (2), we must ascertain whether its protection extends to both categories of arrests mentioned above, and, if not, then which one of them comes within its protection. There can be no matter of doubt that arrests without warrants issued by a court call for greater protection than do arrests under such warrants. The provision that the arrested person should within 24 hours be produced before the nearest Magistrate is particularly desirable in the case of arrest otherwise than under a warrant issued by the court, for it ensures the immediate application of a judicial mind to the legal authority of the person making the arrest and the regularity of the procedure adopted by him. In the case of arrest under a warrant issued by a court, the judicial mind had already been applied to the case when the warrant was issued and, therefore, there is less reason for making such production in that case a matter of a substantive fundamental right. The matter of 'House Arrest' was deliberated by the court as: "There can be no quarrel with the proposition that a court cannot remand a person unless the court is authorised to do so by law. We are of the view, that in the facts of this case, the house arrest was not ordered purporting to be under Section 167. We observe that under Section 167 in appropriate cases it will be open to courts to order house arrest."

49. Consider the following statements:

- (I) The application of judicial mind is not necessary to issue a warrant by the court.
- (II) The constitutional notion demands the application of judicial mind immediately after the arrest of person without a warrant.

Choose the correct answer from the code given below.

- (A) Both (I) and (II) are true.
- (B) Both (I) and (II) are untrue.
- (C) (I) is true and (II) is untrue.
- (D) (II) is true and (I) is untrue.

50. Section 57 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 applies to arrest _____ warrant.

- (A) With
- (B) Without
- (C) With or without
- (D) On execution of

51. The fundamental right under Article 22(2) of the Constitution of India regarding the duty of police to produce arrested person before the nearest Magistrate applies to:

- (A) Detenu who at the time of arrest is an enemy alien.
- (B) Arrest under any law providing for preventive detention.
- (C) Arrest under Section 41 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973.
- (D) Arrest in execution of warrant issued by the court.

52. Section 167 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 empowers a Judicial Magistrate to authorise the detention of an accused in:
- (A) Police Custody.
  - (B) Judicial Custody.
  - (C) Both Police Custody and Judicial Custody.
  - (D) Other than Police and Judicial Custody.
53. In Gautam Navlakha v. National Investigation Agency, 2021 SCC OnLine SC 382, the court did not consider the period of house arrest in calculating the period of custody for the purpose of filing the application for default bail because:
- (A) The order of house arrest was not purported to be under Section 167 the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973.
  - (B) The court is not authorized to order house arrest under Section 167 the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973.
  - (C) The order of house arrest was illegal.
  - (D) The term 'house arrest' was not given anywhere under the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973.
54. In Gautam Navlakha v. National Investigation Agency, 2021 SCC OnLine SC 382, the court has established that the order of the court to direct house arrest of the arrested person shall be:
- (A) Unconstitutional.
  - (B) Within the competence of the court under Section 167 the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973.
  - (C) Beyond the competence of the court under Section 167 the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973.
  - (D) Discretionary.
- X. Section 304-B (1) of the Indian Penal Code, 1860 (IPC) defines 'dowry death' of a woman. It provides that 'dowry death' is where death of a woman is caused by burning or bodily injuries or occurs otherwise than under normal circumstances, within seven years of marriage, and it is shown that soon before her death, she was subjected to cruelty or harassment by her husband or any relative of her husband, in connection with demand for dowry. Further, Section 304-B (2) of IPC provides punishment for the aforesaid offence. The Supreme Court of India summarized the law under Section 304-B of IPC and Section 113B of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872 (IEA) as under: (i) Section 304-B of IPC must be interpreted keeping in mind the legislative intent to curb the social evil of bride burning and dowry demand; (ii) The prosecution must at first establish the existence of the necessary ingredients for constituting an offence under Section 304-B of IPC. Once these ingredients are satisfied, the rebuttable presumption of causality, provided under Section 113-B of IEA operates against the accused; (iii) The phrase 'soon before' as appearing in Section 304-B of IPC cannot be construed to mean 'immediately before'. The prosecution must establish existence of 'proximate and live link' between the cruelty or harassment for dowry demand by the husband or his relatives and the consequential death of the victim.

55. In Gurmeet Singh v. State of Punjab, 2021 SCC OnLine SC 403, a three-judge bench of the Supreme Court of India issued guidelines for trial in dowry death cases. The bench comprised of:
- (A) N.V. Ramana, Uday Umesh Lalit and A.M. Khanwilkar, JJ.
  - (B) N.V. Ramana, Sanjay Kishan Kaul and Surya Kant, JJ.
  - (C) N.V. Ramana, Surya Kant and Aniruddha Bose, JJ.
  - (D) N.V. Ramana, L. Nageswara Rao and Hemant Gupta, JJ.
56. In which of the following provisions is the term 'dowry' defined ?
- (A) Section 2 of the Dowry Prohibition Act, 1961.
  - (B) Section 3 of the Dowry Prohibition Act, 1961.
  - (C) Section 498A of the Indian Penal Code, 1860.
  - (D) Section 304B of the Indian Penal Code, 1860.
57. "The presumption as to dowry death provided under Section 113B of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872 is a 'shall' presumption." The given statement is:
- (A) True.
  - (B) False.
  - (C) Neither true nor false as the application of the presumption is a matter of discretion of court.
  - (D) Neither true nor false as the application of the presumption depends on the facts of the case.
58. Whether the demand for dowry was 'soon before' the death of the alleged victim of dowry death for establishing the offence under Section 304-B of the Indian Penal Code, 1860 is determined by the court on the basis of:
- (A) The length of time between demand of dowry and death.
  - (B) The gravity of demand of dowry, including the existence of burns or injuries inflicted while making such demand.
  - (C) The length of marriage of the victim and the accused.
  - (D) The totality of circumstances of each case, without relying on any straight jacket formula.
59. In order to establish that the accused has committed an offence under Section 304-B of the Indian Penal Code, 1860, the prosecution is required to prove that the death of the victim occurring 'otherwise than under normal circumstances':
- (A) Is either homicidal or suicidal death.
  - (B) Is accidental death only.
  - (C) May be homicidal or suicidal or accidental death.
  - (D) Is suicidal death only.

60. The words 'soon before' in Section 304-B of the Indian Penal Code, 1860, are not interpreted as 'immediately before' because:
- (A) A criminal statute is to be interpreted strictly.
  - (B) Section 304-B of the Indian Penal Code, 1860 is to be read with the presumption under Section 113B of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872.
  - (C) Once these ingredients are satisfied, the rebuttable presumption of causality under Section 113-B of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872 operates against the accused.
  - (D) The legislative intent of Section 304-B of the Indian Penal Code, 1860 is to curb the social evil of bride burning and dowry demand.

XI. To every State whose land territory is at any place washed by the sea, international law attaches a corresponding portion of maritime territory... International law does not say to a State: "You are entitled to claim territorial waters if you want them". No maritime State can refuse them. International law imposes upon a maritime State, certain obligations and confers upon it certain rights arising out of the sovereignty which it exercises over its maritime territory. The possession of this territory is not optional, not dependent upon the will of the State, but compulsory. In the ninth edition of Oppenheim's International Law, the nationality of ships in the high seas has been referred to in paragraph 287, wherein it has been observed that the legal order on the high seas is based primarily on the rule of International Law which requires every vessel sailing the high seas to possess the nationality of, and to fly the flag of, one State, whereby a vessel and persons on board the vessel are subjected to the law of the State of the flag and in general subject to its exclusive jurisdiction. In paragraph 291 of the aforesaid discourse, the learned author has defined the scope of flag jurisdiction to mean that jurisdiction in the high seas is dependent upon the Maritime Flag under which vessels sail, because no State can extend its territorial jurisdiction to the high seas. Of course, the aforesaid principle is subject to the right of 'hot pursuit', which is an exception to the exclusiveness of the flag jurisdiction over ships on the high seas in certain special cases.

61. A Coastal State, subject to the obligations imposed by International Law, has sovereignty over its:
- (A) Territorial waters, the seabed and subsoil underlying such waters, and the air space above them.
  - (B) Territorial waters, the seabed and subsoil underlying such waters.
  - (C) Territorial waters only.
  - (D) Territorial waters and the air space above them.
62. Which provision of the United Nations Convention on the Law of the Sea 1982 (UNCLOS) makes an express declaration that: "No State may validly purport to subject any part of the high seas to its sovereignty."?
- (A) Article 86
  - (B) Article 87
  - (C) Article 88
  - (D) Article 89

63. According to Article 94(7) of the United Nations Convention on the Law of the Sea 1982 (UNCLOS), in the event of a marine casualty or incident of navigation on the high seas involving a ship flying a State's flag and causing loss of life or serious injury to nationals of another State, which of the following shall be the duty of the Flag State?
- (A) To conform to generally accepted international regulations, procedures and practices and to take any steps which may be necessary to mitigate the damage so caused.
  - (B) To cause an inquiry to be held by or before suitably qualified person(s) into such casualty or incident.
  - (C) To investigate the matter and, if appropriate, take any action necessary to remedy the situation.
  - (D) To assume jurisdiction under its internal law over such casualty or incident in respect of its administrative, technical and social implications.
64. Territorial waters are not only 'territory' but also a compulsory _____ to the coastal state.
- (A) Liability
  - (B) Equitable interest
  - (C) Appurtenance
  - (D) Trust
65. The right of 'hot pursuit', which has been codified in Article 111 United Nations Convention on the Law of the Sea 1982 (UNCLOS) recognises that:
- (A) A vessel, if it has committed a violation of the laws of a foreign State while in that State's sovereign or territorial waters, may be pursued onto the high seas.
  - (B) A vessel, if it has committed a violation of the provisions of the UNCLOS while in that State's sovereign or territorial waters, may be pursued onto the high seas.
  - (C) A vessel, if it has committed a violation of the laws of a foreign State while in that State's sovereign or territorial waters, may be pursued onto the foreign State's sovereign or territorial waters.
  - (D) A vessel, if it has committed a violation of the laws of a foreign State while in that State's sovereign or territorial waters, may be pursued onto a third State's sovereign or territorial waters.
66. In which of the following judgments, the Supreme Court of India has opined that "sovereignty is not 'given', but it is only asserted"?
- (A) State of Tamil Nadu v. Mariya Anton Vijay, (2015) 9 SCC 294.
  - (B) Great Eastern Shipping Co. Ltd. v. State of Karnataka, (2020) 3 SCC 354.
  - (C) Republic of Italy through Ambassador v. Union of India, (2013) 4 SCC 721.
  - (D) Sabeeha Faikage v. Union of India, (2013) 1 SCC 262.

XII. Sections 31 to 35 of Chapter III of the Indian Contract Act, 1872 deals with contingent contracts and Section 36 deals with contingent agreements. A contingent contract is one where the liability to perform the promise depends upon some collateral event which may or may not happen. A contract of insurance is an example of a contingent contract, where the liability of the insurer depends upon the occurrence of the event, viz. damage or destruction arising out of fire. Life insurance in a broader sense comprises any contract in which one party agrees to pay a given sum upon happening of a particular event contingent upon duration of human life, in consideration of the immediate payment of a smaller sum or certain equivalent periodical payments by another. The event may be certain but it's happening in a specific manner or within a particular time would be uncertain. A contract of indemnity to make good the loss arising out of the conduct of the promisor is a contract contingent upon the act of a party. Such condition may be express or may also be implied into a contract. A contract for storage of potatoes in a cold storage cooling system was held subject to an implied condition that it could be performed only when there was continuous electric supply. But where there is a document embodying the terms of a contract, it is not permissible to imply therein a condition if that will be inconsistent with its express terms.

67. Which of the following is not correct about the nature of contingent contract?
- (A) A contract contingent upon the happening of an event can be enforced after that event occurs.
  - (B) A contract contingent upon the happening of an event can be enforced even before that event occurs.
  - (C) If the event becomes impossible, the contract becomes void.
  - (D) The parties are under no obligation till the happening of that event unless there is a term requiring the parties to make effort to make that event happen.
68. 'A' agrees to pay 'B' a sum of money if a certain cruise does not return. The cruise is sunk. Based on the given facts, which of the following statement is correct?
- (A) The contract can be enforced when the cruise sinks.
  - (B) Sinking of cruise has no relevance for validity of contract.
  - (C) The contract cannot be enforced when the cruise sinks.
  - (D) The condition is impossible.
69. Which of the following is correct regarding a contingent contract?
- (A) No contract comes into existence until the contingency occurs.
  - (B) One party cannot assume an immediate unilateral obligation subject to a condition.
  - (C) The parties cannot enter into an immediately binding contract; and either the operation of the contract is made to depend upon the happening of the specified event.
  - (D) All contingent contracts are void.

70. 'X' promises to pay 'Y' a sum of money if a certain ship returns within a year. Based on the given facts, which of the following statement is not correct?
- (A) The contract becomes void if the ship is burnt within the year.
  - (B) The contract depends upon returning or non-returning of the ship.
  - (C) The contract may be enforced if the ship returns within the year.
  - (D) The contract cannot be enforced if the ship returns within the year.
71. 'A' agrees to pay 'Z' an amount of ₹ 2 lakhs if 'Z' marries 'B'. 'B' was dead at the time of the said agreement between 'A' and 'Z'. Based on the given facts, which of the following statement is correct?
- (A) The agreement is valid.
  - (B) The enforceability of agreement does not depend on the existence of 'B'.
  - (C) The agreement is void.
  - (D) The event is possible in its nature.
72. Which of the following statement correctly describes the difference between wagering agreements and contingent contracts?
- (A) Wagering agreements are void and contingent contracts are valid.
  - (B) Wagering agreements are valid and contingent contracts are void.
  - (C) Wagering agreements and contingent contracts are valid.
  - (D) Wagering agreements and contingent contracts are void.

XIII. Supreme Court of India has pointed out that there are not less than 100 instances under the Income Tax Act, 1961, where in the event of amalgamation, the method of treatment of a particular subject matter is expressly indicated in the provisions of the Act. In some instances, amalgamation results in withdrawal of a special benefit (such as an area exemption under Section 80IA) - because it is entity or unit specific. In the case of carry forward of losses and profits, a nuanced approach has been indicated. All these provisions support the idea that the enterprise or the undertaking, and the business of the amalgamated company continues. The beneficial treatment, in the form of set-off, deductions (in proportion to the period the transferee was in existence, vis-à-vis the transfer to the transferee company); carry forward of loss, depreciation, all bear out that under the Act, (a) the business-including the rights, assets and liabilities of the transferor company do not cease, but continue; (b) by deeming fiction-through several provisions of the Act, the treatment of various issues, is such that the transferee is deemed to carry on the enterprise as that of the transferor.

73. Consider the given statements:
- (I) Amalgamation is the merger of one or more companies with another company.
  - (II) Amalgamation may be the merger of two or more companies to form a new company.
  - (III) The amalgamating company integrates with amalgamated company and the former is dissolved without winding up.

Choose the correct answer from the Code given below:

- (A) Only (I) and (II) are true.
- (B) Only (II) and (III) are true.
- (C) Only (I) and (III) are true.
- (D) (I), (II) and (III) are true.

74. On amalgamation of a company,
- (A) There is transfer of capital assets from amalgamating company to amalgamated company and therefore capital gain can arise in the hands of the amalgamating company.
  - (B) There is transfer of capital assets from the amalgamating company to amalgamated company and hence capital gain can arise in the hands of the shareholders of the amalgamating company.
  - (C) Succession of capital assets of the amalgamating company by the amalgamated company does not result in transfer as defined in Section 47 of the Income Tax Act and hence no capital gain arises.
  - (D) All are incorrect.
75. In case of amalgamation,
- (A) Amalgamated company can set off the losses of the amalgamating company, if conditions of Income Tax Act, 1961 are complied with.
  - (B) New company can claim depreciation on capital assets in the year of transfer on pro-rata basis.
  - (C) New company can carry forward unabsorbed depreciation.
  - (D) All are true.
76. Consider the given statements:
- (I) In case of amalgamation, transferee-company can claim deduction for expenditure incurred on amalgamation.
  - (II) Any cessation of liability of amalgamating company shall be taxed in the hands of the amalgamated company.
- Choose the correct answer from the Code given below:
- (A) Both (I) and (II) are true.
  - (B) Only (I) is true.
  - (C) Only (II) is true.
  - (D) Both (I) and (II) are untrue.
77. Which of the following is true?
- (A) The accumulated loss of the amalgamating company shall be deemed to be the loss of the amalgamated company for the previous year in which the amalgamation was effected.
  - (B) The amalgamated company can claim all deductions under Section 80 of Income Tax Act, 1961 including unit specific deductions.
  - (C) The accumulated loss of the amalgamating company shall not be deemed to be the loss of the amalgamated company.
  - (D) All are incorrect.

78. Consider the given statements:

- (I) On amalgamation, the business of the transferor company does not cease, but is deemed to continue.
- (II) Under various provisions of the Income Tax Act, transferee is deemed to carry on the enterprise as that of the transferor.

Choose the correct answer from the Code given below:

- (A) Both (I) and (II) are true.
- (B) Only (I) is true.
- (C) Only (II) is true.
- (D) Both (I) and (II) are untrue.

XIV. The Supreme Court of India in a Suo Motu Writ Petition In Re: Distribution of Essential Supplies and Services During Pandemic, [Writ Petition (Civil) No. 3 of 2021], analyzed the power of judicial review over the management of the COVID-19 pandemic in India. The Union of India has highlighted a few concerns as: The executive is battling an unprecedented crisis and the government needs discretion to formulate policy in larger interest and its wisdom should be trusted; The current vaccine policy conforms to Articles 14 and 21 of the Constitution, and requires no interference from the courts as the executive has room for free play in the joints while dealing with a pandemic of this magnitude; Judicial review over executive policies is permissible only on account of manifest arbitrariness. No interference from judicial proceedings is called for when the executive is operating on expert medical and scientific opinion to tackle a medical crisis; and any over-zealous judicial intervention, though well-meaning, in the absence of expert advice or administrative experience may lead to unintended circumstances where the executive is left with little room to explore innovative solutions. The court clarified that in the context of the public health emergency, the executive has been given a wider margin in enacting measures which ordinarily may have violated the liberty of individual. The judiciary has also recognized that Constitutional scrutiny is transformed during such public health emergencies and noted the complex role of the government in battling public health emergencies in following words: ...While this court should guard with firmness every right appertaining to life, liberty or property as secured to the individual by the Supreme Law of the Land, it is of the last importance that it should not invade the domain of local authority except when it is plainly necessary to do so in order to enforce that law. But even in a pandemic, the Constitution cannot be put away and forgotten and a public health emergency does not give Governors and other public officials carte blanche to disregard the Constitution for as long as the medical problem persists. ...the courts should expect policies that more carefully account for Constitutional rights. The court stated that separation of powers is a part of the basic structure of the Constitution of India. However, this separation of powers does not result in courts lacking jurisdiction in conducting a judicial review of these policies.

79. Which of the following statements is untrue?

- (A) Policy-making lays in the sole domain of the executive.
- (B) The power of judicial review may be exercised on public health policies.
- (C) Separation of powers restricts the power of judicial review on public health policies.
- (D) Policy-making should be in conformity with the fundamental rights.

80. Soliciting constitutional justification for executive policies in managing a public health crisis during pandemic appears to be:
- (A) Necessary function of the court. (B) Discretionary power of the court.
(C) Not within the ambit of judicial review. (D) Unnecessary interference from the court.
81. In the above excerpt, the Union of India opposed judicial intervention in apprehension of circumstances restricting the scope for the executive to explore solutions. The said argument was supported on the ground that :
- (A) The judges are not public health experts, therefore in the absence of expert advice, it would be an undesirable intervention.
(B) The executive needs room for free play while dealing with pandemic.
(C) Constitutional rights are suspended during a pandemic.
(D) Both (A) and (B).
82. Consider the following statements:
- (I) An intrusion by the judiciary in the domain of the executive is prohibited under the separation of powers principle, except when it is necessary to do so in order to enforce the express provisions of the Constitution of India.
(II) An intrusion by the judiciary in the domain of the executive is allowed when it is necessary to do so in order to safeguard the rights relating to life, liberty or property as secured to the individual by the Constitution of India.
- Choose the correct answer from the code given below.
- (A) Both (I) and (II) are true. (B) Both (I) and (II) are untrue.
(C) (I) is true and (II) is untrue. (D) (II) is true and (I) is untrue.
83. In the case of In Re: Distribution of Essential Supplies and Services During Pandemic, the Supreme Court of India examined the constitutional validity of Central Government's policy regarding vaccine procurement and distribution among different categories of the population. Such policy is known as:
- (A) Vaccination Distribution Policy. (B) Liberalized Vaccination Policy.
(C) Central Vaccination Distribution Policy. (D) None of the above.
84. Public health is a subject under _____ of the Seventh Schedule of the Constitution.
- (A) Entry 6 of List II (State List) (B) Entry 36 of List II (State List)
(C) Entry 81 of List I (Union List) (D) Entry 29 of List III (Concurrent List)

XV. The right to clean and healthy environment has been recognized as a fundamental right under Article 21 of the Constitution of India. Article 48-A imposes a duty upon the State to endeavour to protect and improve the environment and safeguard the forests and wildlife of the Country. In addition to this, India is also a party to international treaties, agreements and conferences and has committed itself to sustainable development and growth. This legal framework indicates that sustainable development must remain at the heart of any development policy implemented by the state. It is essential to strike the right balance between environmental conservation and protection on one hand, and the right to development on the other, while articulating the doctrine of sustainable development. We may add that in our opinion conservation and development need not be viewed as binaries, but as complementary strategies that weave into one another. In other words, conservation of nature must be viewed as part of development and not as a factor stultifying development.

85. Which of the following provisions contain the fundamental duty to protect and improve the natural environment?
(A) 51A(h) (B) 51A(g) (C) 51A(f) (D) 51A(d)
86. Under which of the following provisions can Union legislature enact laws for giving effect to international agreements?

XIX. If a tax is ultra vires or unconstitutional then the party is entitled to have a refund of it from the government whether it has been paid under protest or not. This Court has held that the payment of tax which is without authority of law is payment made under a mistake within the meaning of Section 72 of the Indian Contract Act. Then, in such a case, question would arise, whether the government to whom the payment had been made by mistake must repay it. Thus, the principle of restitution or repayment of the tax simpliciter has been considered in light of the doctrine of unlawful enrichment. The doctrine envisages that when the State collects a tax from the tax-payer without authority of law, but if the taxpayer has already passed on the burden of the tax money paid by him to the State to someone else and has recouped the money then the taxpayer is not entitled to ask for the restitution from the State the money paid by him as unauthorized tax. In such circumstances, the State cannot be asked to refund the tax money to the taxpayer on the principle of unlawful enrichment.

109. Doctrine of Unjust Enrichment implies:

- (A) Obtaining benefit from another (which is not a gift) without legal justification
- (B) Restoration of the benefits obtained without legal justification
- (C) Neither (A) nor (B)

- (A) Cess
  - (B) Fee
  - (C) Tax
  - (D) None of the above

XX. The International Court of Justice recalls that, pursuant to Article 41 of its Statute, it has the power to indicate provisional measures when irreparable prejudice could be caused to rights which are the subject of judicial proceedings or when the alleged disregard of such rights may entail irreparable consequences. However, this power will be exercised only if there is urgency, in the sense that there is a real and imminent risk that irreparable prejudice will be caused to the rights claimed before the Court gives its final decision. The condition of urgency is met when the acts susceptible of causing irreparable prejudice can “occur at any moment” before the Court makes a final decision on the case. The Court must therefore consider whether such a risk exists at this stage of the proceedings. The Court is not called upon, for the purposes of its decision on the Request for the indication of provisional measures, to establish the existence of breaches of obligations under the Genocide Convention, but to determine whether the circumstances require the indication of provisional measures for the protection of the right found to be plausible. Having determined that Ukraine can plausibly assert a right under the Genocide Convention and that there is a link between this right and the provisional measures requested, the Court then considers whether irreparable prejudice could be caused to this right and whether there is urgency, in the sense that there is a real and imminent risk that irreparable prejudice will be caused to this right before the Court gives its final decision.

115. Under what statutory authority did the court pass the ‘provisional measures’ against the Russian Federation?
- (A) Charter of the United Nations 1945
  - (B) Statute of the International Court of Justice 1945
  - (C) Genocide Convention, 1948
  - (D) None of the above

  - (D) All of the above
117. The reason behind the Russian-Ukraine crisis is:
- (A) The violation of Geneva Convention of the Refugees 1951
  - (B) The violation of the Agreement between Confederation of Independent States and Europe
  - (C) Threat or use of force contrary to the Purpose and Principles of the United Nations Charter
  - (D) Neither (A) nor (B)
118. If one of the two parties to the dispute fails to appear before the Court during the oral proceedings, the other party may call upon the court to decide the matter in favour of its claim. Which of the following provision provides for this?
- (A) Article 41 of the Statute of the ICJ
  - (B) Article 51 of the Statute of the ICJ
  - (C) Article 52 of the Statute of the ICJ
  - (D) Article 53 of the Statute of the ICJ
119. Under which of the following provisions, Ukraine sought jurisdiction to appear before the Court?
- (A) Article 36 of the Statute of the ICJ
  - (B) Article IX of the Genocide Convention
  - (C) Both (A) and (B)
  - (D) Neither (A) nor (B)
120. The Russian Federation, in the current dispute submitted to the court, the defence of Article 51 of the UN Charter. What is defence of Article 51?
- (A) Self-defence
  - (B) Force Majure

1. (A) Legal Positivism

Explanation- Legal positivism asserts that the validity of law is determined by its source, particularly the authority that creates it, such as a government or legislature. According to legal positivism, laws derive their validity from the political sovereignty of the lawmakers. Therefore, the statement aligns with the principles of legal positivism.

2. (B) Natural Law

Explanation- Natural law theory argues that for a norm to be considered legally valid, it must align with principles of fairness and justice inherent in natural law. Natural law posits that there are universal moral principles that govern the validity of laws.

3. (A) Ronald Dworkin, Taking Rights Seriously, 1977

Explanation- Ronald Dworkin, in his work "Taking Rights Seriously," critiques legal positivism for its narrow focus on rules and argues that legal principles also play a significant role in determining the law. He distinguishes between rules and principles, highlighting that principles contribute to legal decisions alongside rules.

4. (A) Inner Morality

Explanation- These principles align with the concept of inner morality in legal theory, which asserts that laws must adhere to certain moral principles, including fairness, clarity, and stability, to be considered legitimate.

5. (B) Roscoe Pound

Explanation- Roscoe Pound, a legal scholar, expressed this idea, emphasizing the importance of understanding legal history to comprehend current legal issues and anticipate future developments.

6. (A) Holmes

Explanation- Oliver Wendell Holmes Jr., a renowned American jurist, famously stated, "The life of the law has not been logic; it has been experience." This quote reflects his pragmatic approach to law, emphasizing the importance of real-life experiences and consequences over abstract reasoning.

7. (A) The morality of aspiration is based on inevitable rules for ordered social living.

Explanation- The statement correctly identifies that the morality of aspiration does not rely on inevitable rules for ordered social living. Instead, it focuses on individual conceptions of the "Good Life" and personal excellence, which are subjective in nature.

8. (D) to conduct necessary for social living.

Explanation- The rules for the morality of duty mandate conduct necessary for social living. These rules provide the basic framework for an ordered society to function effectively.

9. (A) both (i) and (ii) are true.

Explanation- Both statements (i) and (ii) are true. Moralistic philosophies often seek to elevate aspirations into duties for the betterment of society, as stated in statement (i). Statement (ii) reflects how moralistic philosophers might prioritize adherence to societal norms over individual fulfillment.

10. (C) Subjectivity

Explanation- Subjectivity is not required for the formation of a decision regarding moral duty. Moral duties are typically based on rationality, objectivity, and knowledge of circumstances rather than personal biases or subjective interpretations.

11. (A) dynamic

Explanation- Lon L. Fuller's characterization of duty suggests a dynamic understanding, where duties evolve and adapt to different societal contexts and individual circumstances. This dynamic nature reflects the flexibility and responsiveness necessary for moral principles to guide human conduct effectively.

12. (A) 'morality of duty' is non-obligatory

Explanation- The statement that 'morality of duty' is non-obligatory is not true. Morality of duty, by definition, entails obligations and responsibilities that individuals are expected to fulfill as members of a society.

- 13.(C) Lok Prahari through its General Secretary S.N. Shukla, IAS (retd.) v. Union of India, 2021 SCC Online SC 333.

Explanation- The excerpt is from the judgment in Lok Prahari through its General Secretary S.N. Shukla, IAS (retd.) v. Union of India, 2021 SCC Online SC 333. This judgment focuses on addressing the issue of backlog of cases in the High Courts through the activation of a dormant provision of the Constitution for the appointment of ad hoc Judges.

- 14.(A) Article 224A

Explanation- The provision of Article 224A of the Constitution of India has been invoked by the Supreme Court of India for the appointment of ad hoc Judges to address the backlog of cases in the High Courts.

- 15.(B) 4:1

Explanation- In Supreme Court Advocates on Record Association v. Union of India, (2016) 5 SCC 1, the Supreme Court of India restored the collegium system of appointment of judges by a majority of 4:1. This majority decision upheld the collegium system while striking down the National Judicial Appointments Commission Act, 2014.

- 16.(C) Union of India v. Sankal Chand and Himatlal Sheth, (1977) 4 SCC 193.

Explanation- In the case of Union of India v. Sankal Chand and Himatlal Sheth, (1977) 4 SCC 193, the Supreme Court of India observed that the consent of a retired Judge is a prerequisite for his/her appointment as an ad hoc judge. This ensures that the retired Judge willingly agrees to take up the responsibilities associated with the ad hoc appointment.

- 17.(A) One Hundred Eighty-Eighth Report on proposals for Constitution of Hi-tech Fast-track Commercial divisions in High Courts (2003).

Explanation- The Law Commission of India advocated for the appointment of retired judges as ad-hoc judges in the interest of clearing backlogs of cases in the High Courts in its One Hundred Eighty-Eighth Report on proposals for Constitution of Hi-tech Fast-track Commercial divisions in High Courts (2003). This recommendation aimed to address the issue of pending cases by utilizing the expertise of retired judges.

- 18.(C) The Constitution of India does not provide for the establishment of the collegium system.

Explanation- The statement that the Constitution of India does not provide for the establishment of the collegium system is true. The collegium system evolved through judicial interpretation rather than being explicitly provided for in the Constitution of India.

19. (D) Amit Sahni v. Commissioner of Police, (2020) 10 SCC 4.

Explanation- This judgment is pertinent to the excerpt provided as it deals with the Supreme Court's observations regarding the right to peaceful protest and the limitations thereof. The excerpt emphasizes that while democracy and dissent are intertwined, public ways and spaces cannot be indefinitely occupied for protests, emphasizing the need for designated protest areas. The judgment reflects the Supreme Court's stance on balancing the right to protest with public order and convenience.

20. (B) Sampurna behura v. union of india, (2018) 4 SCC 433

Explanation- This judgment is not related to the right to assemble as enshrined under the Constitution of India

21. (A) Right to sleep is not a part of Article 21 of the Constitution of India.

Explanation- Right to sleep is not a part of Article 21 of the Constitution of India.

22. (B) Reasonable restrictions stated under Article 19 for the right to assemble are sovereignty and integrity of India or public order, morality.

Explanation- This statement is not correct. Reasonable restrictions on the right to assemble are outlined in Article 19(3) of the Constitution, which includes interests such as sovereignty, integrity, public order, and morality.

23. (C) Kameshwar Prasad v. State of Bihar, Air 1962 SC 1166.

Explanation- Kameshwar Prasad v. State of Bihar, Air 1962 SC 1166, discusses the rule prohibiting demonstrations by government servants.

24. (C) Sanjay Kishan Kaul, Aniruddha Bose, and Krishna Murari, JJ.

Explanation- Sanjay Kishan Kaul, Aniruddha Bose, and Krishna Murari, JJ., all form the bench referred to in the excerpt.

25. (B) Rajnesh v. Neha, (2021) 2 SCC 324.

Explanation- Rajnesh v. Neha, (2021) 2 SCC 324, is related to the enforcement of orders of maintenance and successive claims by parties in matrimonial proceedings, matching the excerpt provided.

26. (A) Maintenance pendente lite, expenses of proceedings, permanent alimony, and maintenance.

Explanation- The Hindu Marriage Act, 1955, provides for various reliefs including maintenance pendente lite (during the pendency of litigation), expenses of proceedings, permanent alimony, and maintenance.

27.(D) The Muslim Women (Protection of Rights on Marriage) Act, 2019.

Explanation- The Muslim Women (Protection of Rights on Marriage) Act, 2019, does not contain provisions relating to maintenance.

28.(C) It is not mandatory for the applicant to disclose the previous proceeding and the orders passed therein, in the subsequent proceeding

Explanation- This statement is not a direction given by the Supreme Court in the judgment. In fact, the Supreme Court may require disclosure of previous proceedings and orders for proper adjudication.

29.(D) As per the explanation under this provision, wife does not include a woman who has been divorced by, or has obtained a divorce from, her husband but includes a woman who has remarried.

Explanation- According to Section 125 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973, the explanation under this provision clarifies that "wife" does not include a woman who has been divorced by or has obtained a divorce from her husband, but it does include a woman who has remarried. Thus, the statement that a woman who has been divorced is not included as a "wife" is incorrect.

30.(D) As per Section 18 of the Act, a Hindu wife is not entitled to make a claim for a separate residence from her husband, without forfeiting her right to maintenance.

Explanation- Section 18 of the Hindu Adoptions and Maintenance Act, 1956, provides that a Hindu wife is not entitled to make a claim for a separate residence from her husband without forfeiting her right to maintenance. This provision seeks to prevent double benefit for the wife in maintenance claims.

31.(D) A person can be appointed as a judge of the Family Court after the attainment of sixty two years of age.

Explanation- The correct provision is that a person can be appointed as a judge of the Family Court if they have held a judicial office for at least ten years, and this provision does not specify any age limit. The statement is not correct.

32.(C) Aman Lohia v. Kiran Lohia, 2021 SCC OnLine SC 224.

Explanation- The correct judgment related to the working of Family Courts is Aman Lohia v. Kiran Lohia, 2021 SCC OnLine SC 224, as mentioned in the excerpt.

33.(A) Non-compliance of the prescribed mandatory procedure and infraction of principles of natural justice is not a technical irregularity which can be overlooked by family courts.

Explanation- The given excerpt explicitly states that non-compliance with prescribed procedures and principles of natural justice is not a technical irregularity and cannot be overlooked by family courts.

34.(B) Fair procedure and natural justice.

Explanation- The correct statement is that the Family Court must adhere to the norms prescribed by the statute and, additionally, to fair procedure and natural justice, as explicitly mentioned in the excerpt

35.(A) the proceedings must always be held in camera.

Explanation- The correct statement is that the proceedings may be held in camera depending on the desire of the court and the party concerned. The excerpt does not mandate that the proceedings must always be held in camera.

36.(D) Adoption under Hindu Law

Explanation- The Family Courts Act, 1984, does not apply to adoption matters under Hindu Law. Adoption matters are specifically excluded from the purview of the Family Courts Act.

37.(C) Law can regard a promise to do something obviously impossible as significant

Explanation- In this scenario, the agreement involves discovering a treasure by magic, which is inherently impossible in the real world. The law acknowledges the impossibility but still considers the promise as having legal significance. This aligns with the principle that the law may give weight to promises even if the fulfillment is impossible.

38.(C) It does not necessarily make the contract impossible of performance.

Explanation- Frustration of Contract does not necessarily make the entire contract impossible of performance; it applies when the agreement becomes impossible due to unforeseen events.

39.(A) The performance of the act may not be literally impossible, but it may be impracticable from the point of view of the object.

Explanation- The excerpt suggests that the word 'impossible' in Section 56 is interpreted in a practical sense, allowing for impracticability from the contract's objective.

40. (D) Impotentia Excusat Legem

Explanation- "Impotentia Excusat Legem" means "impossibility excuses the law," aligning with the given statement that law does not compel a person to perform an impossible task.

41. (B) The contract is absolute and covers the impossibility.

Explanation- If the contract is not absolute and does not cover the impossibility, it may still be frustrated. The nature of the contract is essential.

42. (A) The doctrine of Frustration will not be applicable to assist a party that does not want to fulfill its obligations under the contract.

Explanation- The doctrine of Frustration is not a tool to help a party evade fulfilling its obligations willingly. It applies when unforeseen events genuinely frustrate the contract.

43. (D) both (b) and (C).

Explanation- Both options (b) and (C) are incorrect because the necessity for both the State Act to be reserved for the President's consideration and to receive the President's assent is not part of the twin requirement test for determining repugnancy under Article 254 of the Constitution of India. The test primarily focuses on whether there is a conflict or inconsistency between the Central and State legislation on matters within the Concurrent List.

44. (B) Contract relating to agriculture land falls under entry 7 of the Concurrent List

Explanation- Contracts relating to agriculture land do not fall under Entry 7. Instead, they are covered under Entry 18 of the State List, which exclusively deals with land.

45. (B) Pith and substance

Explanation- Option B is correct because when State legislation incidentally covers a subject under exclusive Parliament jurisdiction, the test applied is that of pith and substance.

46. (D) Both (B) and (C)

Explanation- The correct interpretation of word 'assent' in Article 254 (2) includes both aspects. The President's assent is needed for the State Legislature's proposal to enact a new law on a subject where a Central law already exists.

47. (C) The Concurrent List

Explanation- Article 254(2) applies to the matters enumerated in the Concurrent List, as it deals with the situation where both the Central and State legislatures have the power to legislate.

48. (B) To the extent of the repugnancy, be void.

Explanation- The correct principle states that in case of inconsistency, the State law is void only to the extent of repugnancy with the Central law.

49. (D) (ii) is true and (i) is untrue.

Explanation- The correct principle suggests that the wife's income, even if substantial, does not negate the husband's obligation to provide maintenance. Therefore, asserting that Meera's substantial income automatically absolves Rajeev of any obligation contradicts the court's observation. The court's stance is clear that the husband's duty takes precedence despite the wife's earning capacity.

50. (B) Without

Explanation- Section 57 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 applies to arrests made without a warrant. This section mandates that the investigation should be completed within 24 hours of such an arrest, and if not, the arrested person should be brought before a magistrate as provided under Section 167 of the Code of Criminal Procedure.

51. (C) Arrest under Section 41 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973.

Explanation- Article 22(2) mandates that a person arrested and detained in custody must be produced before the nearest magistrate within a period of 24 hours of such arrest. This provision applies to arrests made under Section 41 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973, among others.

52. (C) both Police Custody and Judicial Custody

Explanation- Section 167 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 empowers a Judicial Magistrate to authorize the detention of an accused person, either in police custody or in judicial custody, depending on the circumstances of the case.

53. (A) the order of house arrest was not purported to be under Section 167 the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973.

Explanation- In Gautam Navlakha v. National Investigation Agency, 2021 SCC OnLine SC 382, the court did not consider the period of house arrest in calculating the period of custody for the purpose of filing the application for default bail because the order of house arrest was not purported to be under Section 167 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973.

- 54.(B) Within the competence of the court under Section 167 the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973.

Explanation- The court held that the order of the court to direct house arrest of the arrested person is within the competence of the court under Section 167 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973. However, the period of house arrest was not considered in calculating the period of custody for the purpose of filing the application for default bail because it was not purported to be under Section 167.

- 55.(C) N.V. Ramana, Surya Kant and Aniruddha Bose, JJ.

Explanation- In Gurmeet Singh v. State of Punjab, 2021 SCC OnLine SC 403, the bench consisted of N.V. Ramana, Surya Kant, and Aniruddha Bose, JJ. They issued guidelines for trial in dowry death cases.

- 56.(A) Section 2 of the Dowry Prohibition Act, 1961.

Explanation- The term 'dowry' is defined in Section 2 of the Dowry Prohibition Act, 1961.

- 57.(A) True.

Explanation- Section 113 B of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872 (IEA) deals with the presumption as to dowry death which is defined in Section 304 B of the Indian Penal Code, 1860 (IPC). This section was added by the Dowry Prohibition (Amendment) Act, 1986 in order to provide speedy justice in case of dowry deaths.

- 58.(D) The totality of circumstances of each case, without relying on any straight jacket formula.

Explanation- If the demand for dowry was 'soon before' death of the alleged victim of dowry death has to be determined on the basis of totality of circumstances of each case, without relying in the straight jacket formulae.

- 59.(C) May be homicidal or suicidal or accidental death.

Explanation- Section 304-B encompasses deaths that are not considered "normal." These may include homicidal, suicidal, or accidental deaths. Therefore, the prosecution is required to prove that the death occurred under abnormal circumstances, which could be any of these types.

- 60.(D) The legislative intent of Section 304-B of the Indian Penal Code, 1860 is to curb the social evil of bride burning and dowry demand.

Explanation- The legislative intent behind Section 304-B is to address the social evil of dowry deaths, particularly bride burning. Interpreting "soon before" as "immediately before" would unduly restrict the scope of the provision, considering the complexities of dowry-related crimes. However, the term 'soon before' must also have reasonable interpretation and must be construed as the event having decent relation to the current event.

- 61.(A) territorial waters, the seabed and subsoil underlying such waters, and the air space above them.

Explanation- A Coastal State, in accordance with international law, possesses sovereignty over its territorial waters, including the seabed and subsoil beneath those waters, as well as the airspace above them. This comprehensive jurisdiction is established to regulate and manage activities within its maritime boundaries.

- 62.(D) Article 89

Explanation- Article 89 of UNCLOS explicitly states that no state may validly subject any part of the high seas to its sovereignty. This provision reaffirms the principle of the freedom of the high seas, prohibiting states from extending their territorial sovereignty beyond their maritime boundaries.

- 63.(B) To cause an inquiry to be held by or before suitably qualified person(s) into such casualty or incident.

Explanation- Article 94(7) of UNCLOS mandates the Flag State to cause an inquiry to be held by or before suitably qualified persons into any marine casualty or incident of navigation on the high seas involving a ship flying its flag and causing loss of life or serious injury to nationals of another State.

- 64.(C) Appurtenance

Explanation- Territorial waters are not only considered as part of the territory of the coastal state but also as a compulsory appurtenance. Appurtenance refers to something that is attached to or belongs to something else. In the context of maritime law, territorial waters are inherently linked to the coastal state's sovereignty and jurisdiction, making them a compulsory appurtenance to the coastal state

65. (A) A vessel, if it has committed a violation of the laws of a foreign State while in that State's sovereign or territorial waters, may be pursued onto the high seas

Explanation- The right of 'hot pursuit' codified in Article 111 of UNCLOS allows a vessel to be pursued onto the high seas if it has committed a violation of the laws of a foreign State while in that State's sovereign or territorial waters. This provision enables coastal states to take necessary measures to enforce their laws and maintain order within their maritime jurisdiction

66. (C) Republic of Italy through Ambassador v. Union of India, (2013) 4 SCC 721.

Explanation- The statement "sovereignty is not 'given', but it is only asserted" was made by the Supreme Court of India in the case Republic of Italy through Ambassador v. Union of India, (2013) 4 SCC 721. This statement displays that sovereignty is inherent and cannot be granted by any external force.

67. (B) A contract contingent upon the happening of an event can be enforced even before that event occurs

Explanation- This statement is incorrect as a contingent contract cannot be enforced before the contingent event occurs because the obligation to perform arises only upon the happening of the specified event. Until the condition is fulfilled, the parties are not legally bound to perform their respective obligations.

68. (A) The contract can be enforced when the cruise sinks.

Explanation- In this scenario, where 'A' agrees to pay 'B' a sum of money if the cruise does not return. This becomes a contingent contract and on the sinking of the cruise the contingent condition is fulfilled and the contract becomes liable to be enforced. Therefore, 'A' is obligated to pay 'B' as per the terms of the contract, and it can be enforced when the cruise sinks.

69. (A) No contract comes into existence until the contingency occurs.

Explanation- In a contingent contract, no contract comes into existence until the specified contingency occurs. Until the contingent event happens, the parties are not bound by any contractual obligations

70. (D) The contract cannot be enforced if the ship returns within the year.

Explanation- If the ship returns within the year, the condition of the contract is fulfilled, and 'X' is obligated to pay 'Y' as per the terms of the contract. The contract can be enforced in this scenario and hence the above statement is the only wrong statement.

71.(C) The agreement is void.

Explanation- The agreement between 'A' and 'Z' is void because the condition upon which it is based is impossible to fulfill. An impossible contract is void ab initio. Moreover, if on a latter date as well, if the condition becomes impossible to be fulfilled then the contract becomes void.

72.(A) Wagering agreements are void and contingent contracts are valid.

Explanation- Wagering agreements, which are based on chance and involve uncertainty, are considered void under the Indian Contract Act like betting. On the other hand, contingent contracts, where the performance depends on the occurrence or non-occurrence of a specific event, are considered valid.

73.(D) (i), (ii) and (iii) are true

Explanation- All the three statements are correct as amalgamation can involve the merger of one or more companies with another company. It can also involve the merger of two or more companies to form a new company and in amalgamation, the amalgamating company integrates with the amalgamated company, and the former is dissolved without winding up.

74.(C) Succession of capital assets of the amalgamating company by the amalgamated company does not result in transfer as defined in Section 47 of the Income Tax Act and hence no capital gain arises.

Explanation- The succession of capital assets of the amalgamating company by the amalgamated company does not constitute a transfer as defined in Section 47 of the Income Tax Act. As a result, no capital gain arises due to the amalgamation.

75.(D) All are true.

Explanation- All the above statements are true.

76.(A) Both (i) and (ii) are true

Explanation- Both statements are true as In case of amalgamation, the transferee-company can indeed claim deduction for expenditure incurred on amalgamation. This deduction is provided under the Income Tax Act, 1961 to incentivize the process of amalgamation. And, Any cessation of liability of the amalgamating company shall be indeed taxed in the hands of the amalgamated company. This is in accordance with the tax treatment of amalgamation under the Income Tax Act, 1961.

77. (A) The accumulated loss of the amalgamating company shall be deemed to be the loss of the amalgamated company for the previous year in which the amalgamation was effected.

Explanation- The accumulated loss of the amalgamating company shall indeed be deemed to be the loss of the amalgamated company for the previous year in which the amalgamation was effected. This provision ensures continuity of treatment of losses for the amalgamated company, allowing it to carry forward and set off the losses as if they were its own

78. (A) Both (i) and (ii) are true

Explanation- Both the statement are true as firstly, the business of the transferor company does not cease but is deemed to continue in case of amalgamation. Secondly, Under various provisions of the Income Tax Act, the transferee is deemed to carry on the enterprise as that of the transferor

79. (C) Separation of powers restricts the power of judicial review on public health policies.

Explanation- Separation of powers does not restrict the power of judicial review on public health policies. Judicial review is a crucial mechanism to ensure that policies are in conformity with constitutional principles, including fundamental rights.

80. (A) Necessary function of the court.

Explanation- During a public health crisis, it becomes necessary for the court to solicit constitutional justification for executive policies to ensure that fundamental rights are not violated.

81. (D) both (A) and (b).

Explanation- The Union of India's argument combines both the arguments that The Union of India's argument combines both the and the executive also needs room for free play while dealing with the pandemic.

82. (A) both (i) and (ii) are true.

Explanation- The intrusion of judiciary in the domain of executive is allowed when it is necessary to do so in order to enforce the express provision of the Constitution of India and safeguard the rights secured by the Constitution of India.

83. (B) Liberalized Vaccination Policy.

Explanation- The correct term used to describe the policy examined by the Supreme Court is the "Liberalized Vaccination Policy." This policy was scrutinized in the case mentioned.

84. (A) Entry 6 of List II (State List)

Explanation- Public health is listed under entry 6 of List II (State List) of the Seventh Schedule of the Constitution. This means that the state governments have the primary responsibility for legislating and implementing policies related to public health within their respective jurisdictions.

85. (B) 51A(g)

Explanation- Article 51A(g) contains the fundamental duty to protect and improve the natural environment, including forests, lakes, rivers, and wildlife, and to have compassion for living creatures.

86. (C) Article 253

Explanation- Article 253 empowers the Union Parliament to make any law for the whole or any part of the territory of India for implementing any treaty, agreement, or convention with any other country or countries.

87. (B) Constitution (Forty Second Amendment) Act, 1976

Explanation- The Constitution (Forty-Second Amendment) Act, 1976 introduced significant changes to various provisions of the Constitution, including the insertion of entries 17A and 17B in List III (Concurrent List). These entries pertain to education including technical education, and medical education but excluded agricultural education.

Explanation- Manorama Sachan v. Lucknow Development Authority (2005) 9 SCC 425 primarily deals with urban development and land acquisition, but it does not directly address sustainable development.

89. (A) that resources like sea, waters, forests are extremely important to the masses and therefore it would be unjustified to make them subjects of private ownership.

Explanation- The Public Trust Doctrine holds that certain resources, such as sea, waters, forests, and other natural resources, are held in trust by the government for the benefit of the public. The public trust doctrine imposes a huge responsibility upon the State to see that the natural resources are protected from any kind of destruction or depletion. The citizens are also responsible for taking proper care of these natural resources. They must also use them wisely. It is also their responsibility to ascertain that the natural resources do not get destroyed or polluted due to any of their activities.

90. (C) both (A) and (B)

Explanation- Both the Polluter Pays Principle and the Precautionary Principle are integral parts of environmental jurisprudence in India and worldwide. The Polluter Pays Principle states that the polluting party should bear the costs of pollution prevention and control measures to ensure that the environment is protected. The Precautionary principle emphasizes that taking preventive action in the face of uncertainty to prevent environmental degradation or harm, even if the full extent of potential harm is not yet fully understood.

91. (A) upon that person who conceived such intention.

Explanation- According to the Indian Evidence Act, 1872, when a person's intention is relevant to the matter in issue, the burden of proving that intention is upon the person who alleges it. Therefore, the burden of proving the intention lies upon the person who conceived such intention

92. (B) Presumption of innocence

Explanation- The presumption of innocence is a cornerstone of criminal jurisprudence. During any conflict it must be assumed that the person is innocent until and unless the guilt of the accused is proven beyond a reasonable doubt.

93. (B) Fully established

Explanation- In cases relying on circumstantial evidence, the circumstances from which the conclusion of guilt is to be drawn should be fully established. This means that all the relevant facts and evidence must be proven beyond a reasonable doubt, leaving no room for alternative explanations.

94. (D) Both (A) and (C).

Explanation- Admissibility of circumstantial evidence requires a chain of evidence that not only does not leave any reasonable ground for a conclusion consistent with the innocence of the accused (option A) but also supports the conclusion that the act must have been done by the accused within all human probability (option C).

95. (C) Dominant

Explanation- The presumption of innocence should have a dominant role in cases where murder charges are based solely on circumstantial evidence. This means that the prosecution must overcome this strong presumption and provide convincing evidence of guilt beyond a reasonable doubt.

96.(B) Section 105

Explanation- Section 105 of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872, is the correct provision. It deals with the burden of proving that a case falls within the general exceptions mentioned in the Indian Penal Code, 1860. As per this section, the accused has to provide evidence to establish that the case falls within the general exceptions mentioned in the IPC.

97.(B) January 15, 2016

Explanation- The Juvenile Justice Act, 2015, was implemented from January 15, 2016. This date marks the enforcement of the new legislation, replacing the Juvenile Justice Act, 2000.

98.(A) 'A' can raise the plea of juvenility since he was a child on the date of commission of the offence.

Explanation- 'A' can raise the plea of juvenility since he was a child on the date of commission of the offence. The age at the time of the alleged offence is crucial in determining the eligibility to claim juvenility.

99.(C) The Court shall take such evidence as it considers necessary and decide the age of the claimant.

Explanation- The Court shall take such evidence as it considers necessary and decide the age of the claimant. The court can conduct an inquiry, gather relevant evidence and make a determination based on the available information with the court.

100. (C) The Court shall forward the matter to the Juvenile Justice board for decision and appropriate orders.

Explanation- The Court shall forward the matter to the Juvenile Justice board for decision and appropriate orders. When the Court finds that the accused was a child on the date of the offence, the case is transferred to the Juvenile Justice board for further proceedings.

101. (D) Children in conflict with law

Explanation- Special homes are designated for children in conflict with the law. Such homes provide them with a structured environment and rehabilitative measures.

Explanation- The resolution emphasizes the right of all individuals to access drinking water in quantities sufficient to meet their basic needs, irrespective of social or economic conditions.

108. (B) Fundamental right

Explanation- As stated above in the case of Narmada Bachao Andolan vs Union of India, it was held that the right to access drinking water is considered a fundamental right, essential for human survival and dignity.

109. (D) Both (A) and (B)

Explanation- Both Option (A) and (B) correctly describes the doctrine of unjust enrichment.

110. (C) Both (A) and (B)

Explanation- Unjust enrichment is a broad legal principle that can apply to various situations, including both contractual and tax-related matters.

111. (A) When the tax has been levied without the authority of law and the burden of tax is borne by the business entity.

Explanation- A business entity can claim a refund of tax on the ground of unjust enrichment when the tax has been levied without the authority of law, and the burden of the tax is directly borne by the business entity.

112. (C) Both (A) and (B)

Explanation- Both option A and B are correct as tax can be declared unconstitutional if it has been levied without the authority of law, as such a tax would lack legal validity and it can also be declared unconstitutional if the legislature lacks competence to levy a particular tax.

113. (A) Union of India v. Mohit Minerals Pvt. Ltd. (2019) 2 SCC 599

Explanation- In Union of India v. Mohit Minerals Pvt. Ltd., the challenge to the constitutionality of the Goods and Service Tax (Compensation to States) Act, 2017, on the ground of lack of legislative competence was rejected by the Supreme Court.

114. (A) Cess

Explanation- A cess is an additional tax imposed for a specific purpose, often levied on existing taxes, creating a tax on tax scenario.

115. (B) Statute of the International Court of Justice 1945.

Explanation- The Statute of the International Court of Justice, established in 1945, grants the court the authority to indicate provisional measures to prevent irreparable harm pending the final decision on a case.

116. (D) All of the above

Explanation- All the above options are correct as the excerpt discusses the possibility of irreparable prejudice arising from various factors, including violations of the Genocide Convention, military operations, and humanitarian law during armed conflict.

117. (C) Threat or use of force contrary to the Purpose and Principles of the United Nations Charter.

Explanation- The primary reason behind the Russian-Ukraine crisis is the threat or use of force by the Russian Federation, which runs counter to the Purpose and Principles of the United Nations Charter

118. (D) Article 53 of the Statute of the ICJ

Explanation- Article 53 of the Statute of the ICJ provides that if one of the parties to a case fails to appear before the court during oral proceedings, the other party may call upon the court to decide the matter in favor of its claim.

119. (C) Both (A) and (B)

Explanation- Ukraine sought jurisdiction to appear before the court under Article 36 of the Statute of the ICJ, which provides for voluntary submission to the court's jurisdiction, and possibly Article IX of the Genocide Convention for disputes related to genocide.

120. (A) Self-defense

Explanation- Article 51 of the UN Charter recognizes the inherent right of individual or collective self-defense in the event of an armed attack until the Security Council takes measures necessary to maintain international peace and security.
